In Preparation for LD Education Day: Practice Teaching Opportunity

Context: Teaching is one of the most intellectually and physically demanding jobs on the planet, but its challenges are far exceeded by the exhilaration of seeing the spark of curiosity in a student. We may consider ourselves experts because we have all experienced an educational system, but to truly understand the world of education, you have to try teaching.

Opportunity: Through Teach for America-Colorado, you have the opportunity to try your hand at teaching. We'll pair you (and an LD friend, if you'd like) with one of our expert teachers so that you can plan a lesson and teach it to students in a DPS school.

Next Steps: Email Katie at Katie.Parvin@teachforamerica.org of Teach for America-Colorado to express your interest, the grade level you'd prefer (if you have a preference), and if you would like to co-teach with any of your LD classmates.
